The gravity of the white dwarf caused the distant star to appear to grow brighter for a few years — a brief flash in astronomical time — as its mass focused light through gravitational lensing, said Jean-Phillippe Beaulieu of the Institut d'Astrophysique de Paris, who led the research and is a co-author of the new study. A second flash of light revealed the orbiting planet.
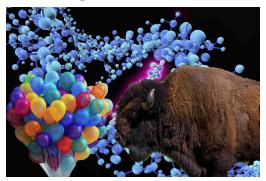

Starbucks is also seeking to persuade the labor board to require that workers at all 20 Buffalo-area stores take part in the election, rather than allow stores to vote individually, arguing that employees can spend time at multiple locations. (Union organizers typically favor voting in smaller units to increase the chance of gaining a foothold in at least some locations.) The board is likely to rule on this question and set an election date in the coming weeks.

Metro pulled the 7000 series cars from service Sunday night — leaving the agency down more than half its fleet — and NTSB chair Jennifer Homendy said other transit agencies that use cars from the same manufacturer, Kawasaki Rail, should check their cars. The company also makes cars for the New York subway system and commuter rail lines in the New York region, although it wasn't immediately clear if those rail cars were affected.

Reflection

While doing this project, I gained more experience creating html and working with css. I learned how to work with a random sentence and created a story out of that image. Making a page from scratch is more difficult for me than having an idea so this project was easier to start. I think that the coding for me was the hardest part because I do not have that much experience but I definitely learned a lot more than I did in the beginning.
